THREE KILLED NEAR BENTLEYVILLE

43 Killed In Crash Of Plane

NEWPORT, Isle of Wight, England (UP)— A crippled British flying boat struggling to reach open water crashed into a chalk pit on this island, killing 43 of the 58 persons aboard, it was officially announced today.

The huge four-engined plane crashed in flames Friday night while attempting to return to its base at Southampton only minutes after it had taken off. It plunged into a wooded area at the Shalcombe farm, almost in the center of the island, and slid into the pit.

Fifteen persons fought their way out or were helped from the blazing wreckage by rescuers. Six were hospitalized with critical or serious injuries. Nine suffered lesser hurts.

Rescue operations were suspended for hours by a heavy peasoup fog which rolled in from the English Channel during the pre-dawn hours.

All Passengers British

All aboard the plane were believed to be Britons.

The plane, owned by the Aquila Airlines, was flying 50 passengers on a winter holiday to the Canary Island, via Lisbon, Portugal. It carried a crew of eight.

Ten minutes after takeoff, the pilot radioed he was turning back because of engine trouble. A few minutes later the plane caught fire and plummeted into the chalk pit, some eight miles from Newport. The spurt of flames when the plane crashed was visible in Newport.

Police and firemen raced to the scene but were hampered by blazing grass and trees in the surrounding woods, touched off by the flames from the plane.

Hair, Clothing Aflame

Rescuers reported finding a number of survivors staggering from the plane with hair and clothing afire. Others rolled on the ground to extinguish burning clothes.

Two survivors, Mrs. Mary Magson and her daughter, Sheila, told newsmen of the crash in a nearby farmhouse after staggering unharmed from the wreckage.

"The takeoff was extremely bad," Mrs. Magson said. "We were in trouble right from the start and everyone expected us to land on the water again.

"The plane was on fire before it crashed. There was no panic but suddenly there was a terrific crash and everything seemed to cave in around us. The plane seemed to be turning over and sliding away and now we know it was sliding into the chalk pit.

NATO Council Trying To Avert Big Breach

PARIS (UP) — NATO's permanent council met in emergency session today in an attempt to avert a major breach in western solidarity over Anglo-American arms shipments to Tunisia.

Observers said the delegates would seek to work out a compromise which would mollify an angry France. Premier Felix Gaillard has hinted that unless a speedy solution is found, France might boycott the NATO "summit" conference Dec. 16.

The French delegation to the NATO parliamentary conference announced it would not participate in the final session of the week-long meeting today. The French stormed out of the conference Friday in protest against the arms deliveries.

The Council of Permanent Representatives to NATO's Paris headquarters met at 4:15 a.m., e.s.t. to take up the dispute between France and its traditional allies, the United States and Great Britain. NATO General Secretary Paul - Henri Spaak presided over the closed-door session.

Summit Meeting At Stake

Gaillard told the French National Assembly Friday that failure to find a "clear and unequivocal solution" before Dec. 16 would "jeopardize" the meeting of the NATO heads of state.

The Dec. 16 meeting in Paris will bring together President Eisenhower, British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and other government chiefs of the 15-nation North Atlantic Treaty Organization. But Gaillard's words were interpreted here as warning that France may not attend unless the arms dispute is settled to its satisfaction.

Gaillard denounced the shipment by the United States and Britain of arms to Tunisia as an "unfriendly act." He added that France was not prepared to destroy "whatever remains of the Atlantic Pact," but he warned the

Two Burglaries Reported Solved By Local Police

Two recent burglaries in Monessen were reported solved today by Chief of Police Michael Kuvinka.

Arrested in connection with the crimes yesterday were Ronald Dinio, 19, of 947 Schoonmaker Ave., and James Davis, 16, of 905 Schoonmaker Ave.

Davis is charged with breaking and entering both Taylor's Book Store at 451 Donner Ave. and Marie's Restaurant near Fifth St. and Schoonmaker Ave.

Dinio is charged with entering Taylor's.

A total of $36 was involved in both burglaries.

Davi was turned over to Westmoreland County juvenile authorities and Dinio will be prosecuted by local police, it was said.

Stockdale Fire Co. Dedication

The Stockdale Volunteer Fire Department will dedicate its new $100,000 fire house and community center tomorrow.

The dedication, scheduled for 6 p. m., will climax a weekend of activities at the building.

Included in the fire house is an auditorium which measures 50 feet by 100 feet. The basketball floor is 96 feet by 40 feet, making it the largest in the district as far as playing area is concerned.

In all, the T-shape brick building contains 10,000 square feet of floor space.

Chamber Surveying Donner Parking Ban

The Monessen Chamber of Commerce wants to know what shoppers and motorists think about the controversial parking ban on the north side of Donner Ave. between Fourth and Sixth Streets.

Over the weekend, about 500 city families will be asked this question:

"In your opinion, is the present parking ban on Donner Ave. a convenience to you as a shopper or motorist?"

The query is included in the annual retail trade questionnaire prepared by the Chamber. The questionnaires were distributed to Monessen High school students yesterday.

Chamber officials predict that at least 500 of them will be returned Monday.

"We hope to get a pretty good idea of how the public feels on the parking ban as a resul' of this survey," said a Chamber spokesman.

City Council imposed the ban on a 90-day trial basis in August as a means of speeding traffic in the downtown section. Since then there has been agitation by a group of Monessen merchants to remove the parking restriction.

The Chamber questionnaire also includes other questions relating to the city's business life. One query will ask: "Are Monessen's parking plazas convenient and adequate."

The surveyed families will also be asked if they find it "easy or difficult to buy what they want in Monessen."

In all, the questionnaire will contain 15 questions designed to produce a comprehensive picture of the public's attitude toward the city's shopping district.

In charge of the survey is Joseph Friedland, chairman of the Chamber's Business Affairs Committee. Once again school officials have cooperated fully in distributing the surveys.

Chamber officials plan to tabulate results of the survey for future use.

Gangland Slayings Forecast

NEW YORK (UP)—The police raid that broke up an underworld meeting in a New York State hamlet inadvertently could touch off a series of gangland murders, police said today.

Authorities speculated the Thursday meeting of the underworld representatives at Joseph Barbero's plush mansion in Apalachin, N.Y., was designed to carve up the national criminal empire ruled by the late Albert Anastasia.

Police said the raid called so much attention to the conclave that the underworld could not risk holding another anywhere in the United States in the near future.

Small Meetings Predicted

A series of small meetings of the underworld elite would be the only answer but these could not solve the many "jurisdictional" problems that syndicated crime involves.

And unless some of these problems can be solved quickly some greedy underworld figures are going to start talking with bullets, police said.

There was wide speculation that some of the younger hoods were trying to move in on the older generation.

Elders Missing

Vito Genovese, 60, of Atlantic Highland, N.J., was the only noted "elder statesman" of the underworld at the meeting. Missing were such "names" as Frank Costello, Anthony (Tony Bender) Strollo and Anthony (Three Finger Brown) Luchese.

(Picked up in the raid were Gabriel "Kelly" Mannarino, 50, New Kensington, and three other Pittsburgh district racket figures, Frank Valenti, 46, Michael Genovese, 38, and Costenza Valenti, 31.)

But police did not hold Genovese, often described as "king of the rackets," or any of the 64 others present at the meeting.

None was armed and all were well-heeled with bankrolls ranging from $450 to $10,000.

New York City Chief of Detectives Edward Byrnes sent some of his agents to Apalachin, near the Pennsylvania border, but it was not known whether they got any revealing information.

Testimony is expected to begin Tuesday in Washington County Court in the murder trial involving three Canonsburg youths.

After more than two days of questioning, both the prosecution and defense finally agreed on the 14th and last juror yesterday.

The defendants are James Gleen Alford, Ronald Burgess and George Pollard. They are accused of severely beating Austin Wallace, 75, of McDonald during a robbery attempt on May 13.

Wallace died in mid-July in Washington Hospital as a result of the beating.

U. S. Ready to Unveil Anti-missile Missile

WASHINGTON (UP) — America's aroused defense today rushed plans to leapfrog Russia into solar space and at the same time counter their intercontinental ballistic missile threat.

Scientists at Kirtland Air Force Base in Albuquerque, N.M., indicated they soon may possess a nuclear anti-missile missile — the "key to American defense" against a sneak enemy attack.

Lt. Col. McPherson Morgan, head of a Kirtland special weapons division, said "we feel we have a way of destroying nuclear and non-nuclear rockets out in space."

10 Minutes to Target

The Defense Department, meantime, has made rapid encirclement of the Soviet Union with ballistic missiles that can carry nuclear warheads 1,500 miles in 10 minutes a priority goal.

Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy outlined the U.S. military reaction to the Communists' Sputniks and loud rocket claims late Friday in his first formal news conference since succeeding Charles E. Wilson Oct. 9.

He announced he will set up a Pentagon super-organization, over and above the individual military services, to press research and development of "new and novel weapons" in the missile and satellite fields. The organization's chief, to be named within a month, will have authority over anti-ballistic missile missiles, outer space vehicles and "some other very upstream types of weapon projects."

Outer Space Projects Planned

The secretary said there would be "specific" projects in the "outer space area."

McElroy, said from his "personal appraisal" of intelligence data "it seems rather obvious that we are behind the Russians" today in missiles and satellites.

But the nation is "moving rapidly," he said, and "can not only close gaps but do better than that."

McElroy promised speeded development of intermediate range ballistic missiles and said the government hoped to "move up the target date" for deploying the 1500-mile range weapons overseas.

Agreements to station the missiles at European bases will figure importantly at the North Atlantic Treaty Organization conference in Paris in December, he said. McElroy will attend the meeting with President Eisenhower.

The youth, police said, was operating the machine without a driver's license. He will also be charged with failure to stop after hitting a parked car.

Fayette County In Program to Safeguard Tots

More than 40,000 pamphlets will be distributed to elementary pupils in Fayette County beginning Monday as part of the Federal Bureau of Investigation's plan for safeguarding the nation's children.

The pamphlets will outline four safety rules devised by FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover. The rules are:

1. Turn down gifts from strangers.
2. Refuse rides offered by strangers.
3. Avoid dark and lonely streets.
4. Know your police officer.

The educational program is one phase of the FBI battle against child molesters.

Fayette County police officials said similar pamphlets will probably be distributed to junior and senior high school students at a later date.

Two Injured in Route 906 Crash

Two persons were injured in an auto accident last night at 11:30 on Monessen-Webster Rd., Route 906, it was learned today.

Two Ellsworth Youths Die in Head-on Crash

Two teen-aged youths and a 30-year-old man were killed late last night in a two-car crash at a curve on Route 71 between Bentleyville and Cokeburg.

Dead are: Richard Perchinsky, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Perchinsky, Ellsworth; his companion, Ronald Homme, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Homme, also of Ellsworth, and Daniel Bissel, 30, of 355 Cloverdale Ave., Canonsburg.

The two teen-agers died instantly. Bissel died shortly afterwards at Washington Hospital.

Perchinsky died from a broken neck and crushed chest. His classmate had a skull fracture and crushed chest. Bissel died from a head injury.

On Way Home

According to state police at Washington, Pa., barracks, the two youths were on their way home from the Ellsworth - Bethlehem Joint High School football game at Fredericktown when the tragedy occurred.

Perchinsky was traveling east on the highway and Bissel west when they crashed head-on at the curve.

The youth was driving a 1952 vehicle and Bissel a 1957 model. Perchinsky's car was damaged about $300 while the Bissel machine was a complete wreck.

Reports said the fatal mishap was the sixth tragedy involving Bentleyville district teen-agers the past several months.

Small Domes at Courthouse Are Under Repair

Two small domes on the Westmoreland County courthouse in Greensburg are now under repair by the Overly Manufacturing Co.

A spokesman for the company said the work should be completed in about two more weeks. The county is paying $17,200 for the project.

Ben R. Hebrank, Westmoreland County engineer, said the mosaic tile filigree on the two small domes had started to disintegrate, although the same type decor on the large main dome remained intact. No work is being done on the large dome. All three domes were originally constructed 50 years ago.

The workmen will remove all the mosaic tiles and fancy work on the two small domes, down to the large tile base. For replacements, aluminum sheets, as similar to the original design as possible, will be applied.

The ribs of the two small domes will be restored with silver aluminum plate; gold aluminum plate will be applied around the base of the domes. Each of the small domes is 17 feet in diameter and 20 feet high.

Hebrank said once the repairs are completed the domes will look just as they did before from any reasonable distance.

Soviets Ready to Shoot The Moon, Expert Says

WASHINGTON (UP)— A rocket authority said today Russia may try to put up a television-carrying satellite within 10 days to scan the world.

He said he has information indicating the Soviets will send up still another satellite — a gigantic 36,000-pound Sputnik—some time next month and may fire a rocket to the moon "within a matter of weeks."

Erik Bergaust, editor of Missiles and Rockets magazine, an authoritative trade publication in the rocket field, also disclosed the United States has just awarded a contract to Lockheed Aircraft Corp. to build an American television-equipped satellite. He said it will be ready in about 18 months.

Bergaust, who predicted the launching of the first two Sputniks, said the Russians have their next satellite - bearing missile "on the launching pad now" and may fire it in 10 days or two weeks.

He said in an interview he believes Sputnik III may carry a television camera that would survey areas of land and sea and transmit much vital data back to Russia.

A monkey or an ape probably will be aboard, he said.

Such a television vehicle could have incalculable military value, providing unstoppable aerial reconnaissance of the United States and most of the free world.

Bergaust said the United States has been making strides in its TV satellite program, called "Project Pied Piper." He said this was shown in the contract to Lockheed to go ahead and build one.

He said his talks with Soviet scientists at the recent international astrophysical meeting in Barcelona, Spain, has convinced him the Soviets are ready to shoot for the moon with a rocket.

"The moon rocket could be set off at any time," he said, "probably within a matter of weeks."

"They are determined to beat the United States to it," Bergaust said. "You can imagine the propaganda value they'll get from that one."

County Youth To Get Sanity Examination

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UP)—Ten year-old Harry Geyer Jr., who shot his father to death Thursday morning, will be given a sanity test today.

The good-looking, fifth - grade youngster was held for court Friday on a murder charge. A.C. Scales, attorney for the boy, indidicated the defense would plead the shooting was accidental.

The boy, appearing before Level Green Justice of the Peace Alphonse J. Bredel, showed no emotion as he was being questioned by authorities.

A number of relatives were present, but Harry's mother, who is expecting another child, could not attend because of her distraught condition.

Harry, a Boy Scout, shot and killed his father at their Level Green home near here Trafford, according to authorities, after the parents had prepared a breakfast of eggs and oatmeal. Police said the youngster became angry when his father refused to let him have a different kind of cereal.

Harry Geyer Sr., a striking Pittsburgh Railways Co. employe, was killed instantly by a single shot fired from a .22 caliber rifle. Police said the boy told them that he had been "thinking of doing this for about a month" and that his father was strict and reprimanded him.

In questioning County Detective Edward Gordon, Scales asked: "Did he tell you he was playing with the gun and when his father came downstairs and hollered at him, he discharged the gun accidentally?"

Gordon answered "No" to the question.

"We feel the additional two weeks will give us more time to prepare the nativity scene," said a spokesman for the Merchants Division.

Paratroops Pull Out of Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UP)—Paratroopers of the 101st Airborne Division have been pulled away from Central High School for the first time since they arrived to suppress integration violence Sept. 24.

A token force of federalized Arkansas National Guardsmen remained on duty at the school where nine Negroes finished their eighth week of classes Friday.

The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals at St. Louis set today for a hearing on a suit for removal of the troops. The suit charges the federal troops at the school violate the Constitution in addition to roughing up citizens and endangering the lives, property and personal rights of the citizens.

WINS CORNING AWARD — Mrs. Cecelia Gray, 304 Ninth St., Charleroi, is showing Charleroi plant manager H. Marvin Hosier her suggestion which earned $50 in the Corning Glass Works employe suggestion program. A timekeeper, Mrs. Gray recommended an improvement in the administration of records. Also winning a $50 award was Francis Weik of Elco. Three other employes at the Charleroi plant won smaller prizes for their suggestions.

Corning Employes to Get Special Awards

Five employes at the Charleroi plant of the Corning Glass Works have won tentative awards for their contributions to the firm's Employe Suggestion System.

John F. Culp, production superintendent of the Charleroi plant and chairman of the suggestion program, said today that two of the contributors will probably win $50 for their ideas.

They are Mrs. Cecelia Gray, a timekeeper who lives at 304 Ninth St., Charleroi, and Francis Weik, a decorating equipment operator who resides in Elco.

Culp revealed that their ideas may win even more after the firm reviews the improvements resulting from the proposals.

Mrs. Gray submitted a suggestion for improving the administration of records. A 25 year employe of Corning, she has been very active in the suggestion program, Culp said.

Weik, employed by Corning since 1945, submitted an idea which involves improvement of production equipment.

Army Missile Hits Target at Thousand Miles

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (UP) — The Army disclosed Friday its Jupiter C intermediate range ballistic missile sped more than a thousand miles to hit its target in the Atlantic.

Authorities disclosed the Jupiter C's performance following first release of eyewitness reports of the missile as it struck the "impact" area.

Redstone Arsenal, producers of the giant rocket, described an impact area as a circular region inside which the rocket is to fall as opposed to a target such as an aircraft carrier.

The Air Force announced at almost the same time that the Snark SM-62 intercontinental guided missile delivered a simulated hydrogen warhead "with unprecedented accuracy" on a tiny ocean target near Ascension Island in the South Atlantic on Oct. 31.

The flight was the world's first known demonstration of a true intercontinental missile's capability. An Air Force announcement said the flight "places any target in the world in range of United States bases."

GEIGER COUNTER PRESENTED TO COUNTY SCHOOLS — A geiger counter, designed to detect radiation, was presented yesterday to Westmoreland County Schools by the Sears, Roebuck and Co. It was one of 1,800 such instruments that the firm plans to make available to schools throughout the nation. The presentation was made by Ray E. Hollandsworth, manager of the Greensburg Sears store. Accepting the geiger counter was County School Superintendent James Hughes. Taking part in the ceremony were Mrs. Martha K. Adams, county CD secretary, Arie VanDych, chairman of the county CD advisory council, and Tom Jennings, Greensburg CD director.

Victim's Widow Makes Dramatic Appearance at Kittle Trial

The state rested its case against accused killer Orville Kittle in Washington County Court yesterday following the dramatic appearance of the victim's 19-year-old widow.

Mrs. Patracia Lasko, the mother of a five-week old child, was the last of the state's long list of witnesses. Pale and speaking so low it was difficult to hear, Mrs Lasko told how she was standing at her husband's side when he was fatally shot last Aug. 10.

"Wayne, you had better get away," Mrs. Lasko said Kittle told her husband.

"After that there was a shot fired and Wayne fell forward. I screamed."

Defense counsel went to work quickly on the black-haired widow's testimony.

Attorney Sanford Finder asked Mrs. Lasko about questions he had asked her in the courthouse hallways Tuesday of this week relative to whether Kittle had said anything to Lasko before firing the fatal shot. Mrs Lasko admitted she told Finder at the time that Kittle had said nothing.

The 36-year-old defendant sat still and expressionless during Mrs. Lasko's testimony looking almost exactly at the same spot he has been probing since the trial opened Tuesday, a spot on the floor about halway between himself and the witness stand.

Only occasionally during the four days has Kittle stirred himself and then to confer briefly with Finder and Frank Carroll, his attorneys or to draw a diagram or write a few words of rebuttal to some fragment of testimony.

Assistant District Attorney A. J. Murphy Jr. rested the state's case late in the afternoon, too late for the defense to make its opening statement to the jury and Judge J. Ingram Hook recessed court until Monday morning when the defense innings start.

Since Tuesday, the Commonwealth had led a virtual parade of witnesses to the stand, detailing its version of the shooting from the afternoon of August 10 when Kittle was at the Hollow Inn Speers Borough to nearly midnight of the same day when Kittle was pulled from the California Borough Police car at a State Police roadblock between Crucible and Carmichaels in Greene County.

The state is asking for a first degree murder verdict, with life imprisonment as the penalty.

At the home of Kittle's sister, the state contends Kittle snatched a .38 calibre revolver from the holster of Speers Borough Police Chief Charles A. Hazlett, held Hazlett and a deputy at bay and attempted to leave the scene in Hazlett's car. George Wayne Lasko tried to keep his uncle, Orville Kittle from leaving and was fatally shot when Kittle fired from virtual pointblank rangs. Kittle then left in the California Borough Police car which had arrived in answer to a call about the trouble at the Barnett home.

One surprising note was injected into the Commonwealth presentation. Two West Brownsville men, Clifford E. Deems and Edward E. C. Cayton, testified that about two weeks prior to the shooting, Kittle had told them he disliked Lasko and would get him someday.

The defense, however, is not expected to let this testimony go unchallenged. Attorney Finder informed the court that he expected to call both men for additional cross-examination next week when the trial is resumed.

Rotary Club to Hold Annual Capon Round-up

A committee of the Monessen Rotary club is completing plans for its annual round-up and dinner for the Rostraver Township 4-H capon club.

Dr. T.W. Kwok, Chinese scholar and former diplomat now with a Pittsburgh securities firm, will be principal speaker at the affair, to be held in the Methodist church at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday, Nov. 26.

Joseph Thurston, Westmoreland County farm agent, will also be on hand to supervise judging of the capons raised by the 4-H club members.

Raising of capons by the young farmers was first encouraged by the Monessen Rotarians many years ago, and the club each year since has entertained the 4-H members, their parents and club advisers at an affair during the Thanksgiving season. Fancy birds, dressed and prepared for judging, are brought to the affair by the 4-H clubbers and purchased by Rotarians.

Dr. J. Karl Beery, chairman of the Rotary rural-urban committee, is heading the group making arrangements, assisted by Dr. Harold Meybin, Rinard Woods, Robert Kramer and Denver Rhome.

Dr. Jessie Wright, medical consultant for the Society's Cerebral Palsy Clinic, will be an ex-officio member of the Board.

Elementary School at Vocational Is Growing

(This is another in a series of articles prepared by the Monessen Education Association on the city school system. Today's article, written by teacher Jean Closky, tells about activities at the Vocational elementary school.)

By JEAN CLOSKY

From little acorns grow big oaks, and so it is with the Vocational Elementary School which has tripled its enrollment in the past few years.

At the onset, there were three classes the first, second, and third grades. Each year another grade has been added and doubled, until at the present time there are two classes for each of the first, second, third, fourth, and fifth grades, and a class of 39 sixth grade children.

Next year, however, there will be two classes for every grade, from the first through the sixth.

The majority of the children who are enrolled at the Vocational School reside in the Park Plan and are transported to and from school by several buses. These children bring their lunch and enjoy a supervised lunch period.

After lunch, weather permitting, they play and romp on the spacious grounds outdoors. This play period is also supervised.

The children at the Vocational school have a well-rounded curriculum and are constantly striving to reach particular goals and high standards that have been set up for their development. Recently a Student Council was organized by the sixth grade children. The Council's chief aims are to develop good citizenship, school spirit, and leadership.

This Council decided to edit a newspaper called "The Vocational Gazette." An editor, co-editor, reporters, and typists were selected from the sixth grade.

Also, reporters from the fourth and fifth grades were chosen to submit news, original jokes, stories, poems, riddles, and other articles of interest from their respective classes.

Although the newspaper idea is yet in the infancy stage, from all indications it promises to be a very informative and entertaining asset to the children at the Vocational School.

Anglo-American move threatened western solidarity.

France cut off arms shipments to its former protectorate of Tunisia last year, charging that the weapons were winding up in the hands of nationalist forces in Algeria where France has been engaged in a bloody and costly struggle to end a years-long rebellion.

Both Britain and the United States flew in "token" shipments of arms to Tunisia Friday. The action was believed prompted by fears that if the West turned down Tunisian Premier Habib Bourguiba's request for arms, he would turn to the Soviet bloc.

Two U.S. Air Force transports, a C-124 Globemaster and a C-47 Dakota, delivered some 500 M-1 rifles and 50,000 rounds of ammunition. Two British Royal Air Force transports flew in more than 400 automatic weapons.

Boycott Dampens Meeting

The parliamentary council ended its conference at 4:30 a.m., est. The boycott by the French dampened the final session of the meeting to cement western unity in the face of Soviet man-made moons and other technical and scientific achievements.

Before adjourning, the conference unanimously endorsed a resolution referring to "recent events" which have borne the danger of "NATO disunity."

The conference also adopted resolutions suggesting:

"Wise Men" Called

—A conference of "Wise Men" be convened shortly to advise NATO on basic questions confronting the alliance. The "Wise Men" would be highly-regarded men in various branches of human activities.

—A much broader meeting of NATO leaders be held in 1959, the 10th anniversary of the anti-Communist pact, such as the 1948 conference of European leaders at the Hague which sparked the continent's unification drive.

—NATO members schedule regular and frequent meetings of their government chiefs and foreign ministers and consult other partners before taking action which might hurt any one of them.

14 Children, Three Adults Burn to Death

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (UP)— An early-morning fire in a three-story frame structure that housed several Negro families brought death today to 17 persons, including 14 children.

The fire, believed to have been started by careless smoking, gutted a building known as the Moonglow Hotel. In recent years it has served as a permanent residence.

Authorities said the most of the missing persons were children, who were believed trapped when the building became enveloped in flames.

Several persons escaped death by jumping from windows.

Two were confined to St. Mary's Hospital. A third was in Memorial Hospital. Five others were treated and released.

One of the hospitalized, Horace Ewing, 35, was believed to be the husband of the woman whose body was found alongside the burned out building.

Confined to St Mary's with Ewing was Mrs Louise Reid, 37. Her son, Herbert, 16, was listed in "critical" condition in Memorial Hospital from burns and injuries.

Sanford Reid, 37, the woman's husband, and four other Reid children were treated at the hospitals and discharged.

Police said the blaze broke out about 4:30 a.m., e.s.t Of the missing, seven were believed members of one family, six of another, and two from a third.

Anybody Surprised?

NOBODY around here should be surprised that a prominent Westmoreland County racketeer, Gabriel "Kelly" Mannarino, of New Kensington, was found by New York state police in a meeting of about 60 of the nation's top hoodlums when the troopers entered a rendezvous at Apalachin, N. Y., Thursday night.

Police are in no doubt that this was a conference of leading members of the Italian "Mafia", the so-called "Black Hand" which has operated the nation's major racket syndicates for many years.

"Kelly" Mannarino and his brother, Sam, have been racket big-shots in Westmoreland County throughout the reign of the Democratic courthouse political machine. The district attorney and other law enforcement agencies in the county have never disturbed the Mannarino operations although they have been open and flagrant. And on their part, the Mannarinos have made no secret of their enthusiasm for what is advertised as the party of "all the people".

To judge by their voting habits, the people of Westmoreland County have not so far been much concerned by the presence in their midst of an active branch of the nation's worst criminal organization. Or by the fact that their political leadership facilitates its operations.

The time is surely coming, however, when the people of Westmoreland County will insist that it be included out of this partnership between crime and politics. If this great nation can't find a way to exterminate such a cancer as the "Mafia", at least the people of local communities can elect public officials who will do their duty.

Don't Forget Smoke

THOSE officials who are planning the future development of Monessen have not yet come to grips with the problem of smoke abatement. And we feel they must do so if these plans are to be complete.

The whole purpose of these plans, as we understand them, is to make the community more pleasant to live in and work in. And it is beyond question that smoke and dirt are foremost among the obstacles to that objective.

This being so, it would be a serious neglect of duty on the part of our planners not to have a close, earnest look at the problem of smoke and tell us what, if anything, can be done about it.

Something surely can be done. Communities of all sizes are doing something about it, Pittsburgh being a shining example.

No one pretends that there are not some special considerations where steel manufacturing is involved. These have been encountered in Pittsburgh, too.

But because steel furnaces present special difficulties is no reason for us to sit on our hands and do nothing at all about the many other sources of air pollution. Effective and practical methods have been found to eliminate or control such sources.

We must not cringe from attacking this problem because it is difficult. Smoke is blighting our individual lives; it is hurting our businesses; it is retarding community progress. Let's develop a plan for curbing smoke and start working sensibly at it.

A Local College?

A LETTER in the Peoples Forum today makes the excellent suggestion that Monessen ought to be considering whether and how some educational facilities beyond the high school level could be provided locally.

Nearly all authorities who have considered this national problem of expanding educational opportunities agree that we are going to have to begin establishing more local and regional colleges or junior colleges.

President Eisenhower began advancing this idea a couple of years ago. In the last state legislature, Governor Leader made a rather dramatic proposal along the same lines.

So it seems reasonable to think that there will be a development in this general direction soon, and it may be nationwide in scope.

Just how Monessen and the rest of the Monongahela Valley area might participate in such a movement is something that deserves study. And it is not too early to start.

For a people nurtured on democracy we certainly have an odd craving for czars to run everything from baseball to satellites.

Now that we can hit a target 5,000 miles away maybe we can interest someone in those close-to-home problems of high taxes and the comomn cold.

Merry-Go-Round—

U. S. Delays Stamp on Satellites

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Arthur Summerfield is a pioneering Postmaster General when it comes to painting mailboxes red, white and blue; but he is very cautious regarding Sputnik. He is just not going to print a new stamp commemorating the International Geophysical Year until the USA hoists a Sputnik of its own into the skies.

Mr. Pearson

Summerfield has already decided that the United States will honor the Geophysical Year with a commemorative postage stamp. However, he's going to wait until the very last day of the year — even until Dec. 31, 1958 if necessary — before issuing the stamp. Of course, if a real live American Sputnik gets over the horizon before that day, then the stamp will be forthcoming.

Reason for the sagacious Summerfield's caution is that the design proposed for the Geophysical Year's stamp would include the official IGY emblem. This emblem shows a satellite orbiting through space around the globe.

The Russians had not made an announcement on their satellite plan when the IGY symbol was adopted; so world scientists, enchanted with the promised U. S. contribution to the "Year," placed the American satellite on the design of the emblem.

However, since the USA hasn't produced, the postage stamp-using public would view this as the Sputnik, not our would-be satellite. So Summerfield, taking no chances, will wait. He doesn't want to be accused of honoring Russia's achievement.

However, one nation, Japan, has already issued a postage stamp showing the IGY emblem and the would-be American satellite. It was issued July 10, 1957. Other countries have also been insuing stamps showing their contributions to the IGY program.

Molasses-moving White House

A lot of people are asking: "Why the bog-down on the missile-satellite program?" Part of the answer goes to general molasses-motion inside the White House. This bogs down a lot of problems. Here are some illustrations:

Civil Rights Commission — This was ballyhooed by the White House time and time again, beginning with the President's State of The Union message in January. On July 16 Ike urged: "I hope that Senate action on this measure will be accomplished at this session without undue delay." At that time a civil rights bill was certain to pass, and Ike could have begun considering commissioners to administer it. But he delayed. Not until November, more than two months after the bill was passed, did the President act.

Foreign Aid — No issue before Congress got more attention from Eisenhower than foreign aid. He especially urged a "Development Loan Fund" to lend money abroad. He got his loan fund from Congress — after going on television to appeal to the people. But now, three months after winning the battle, he still has not appointed a "fund manager" to administer the money he said was so essential.

Education — Beginning four years ago, the President publicly urged aid for education. Privately he gave Congress no help to pass aid to education. Scores of phone calls went to Congress to block Hell's Canyon and to block the Patman probe of high interest rates and Eisenhower fiscal policies. But not one to help secure aid for our schools, which are beginning to lag behind Russia.

The delay on missiles and satellites involved some other factors, but the so-called "tranquillizing" mood inside the White House was one reason for the bog-down.

New Hampshire Humorist

Greatest humorist in Congress, in a quiet, quaint, New England way, is Sen. Norris Cotton of New Hampshire. Here is a cross-section of his Coolidgesque observations written to the folks back home:

"This Congress is both a hare and a tortoise — mostly tortoise.". . . "We must get back to work. In my next letter I'll come down off the mountain top and report to you from the trenches." . . . "As a boy, I was amazed and impressed by a lecture on the internal mechanism of the dairy cow. I regarded Bossy with a new respect, a complex machine — a milk factory on legs. She has four stomachs — one true stomach, three for storage. In one day she can cram 150 pounds of wet grass into her compartments. Then she retires to a shady place, regurgitates it in small amounts, chews it thoroughly, and digests it in her 'true stomach.' Congress should be equipped with the same kind of apparatus."

Today and Tomorrow—

Adlai Stevenson's Position

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Mr. Dulles, having turned to Mr. Stevenson for help has been promised less then he hoped for but as much as he could reasonably have expected.

Mr. Stevenson will not undertake to formulate the administration proposals for the NATO meeting at Paris in December. How could he? He is a private citizen. These proposals will have to be a compound of what can and will be done by the Pentagon, the Treasury, the Budget Bureau, and the State Department. Nobody can formulate these proposals who is not in the inner circle of the administration, indeed who is not vested with the authority of the President himself.

Mr. Lippmann

All that an outsider, no matter how eminent, can do is to comment, to criticize, to support or to oppose what those who have the power of decision propose. For the outsider to attempt to do more, acting as if he himself had authority, would be a pretense, and to participate in it would be a reflection on his own judgment.

Stimson's Role

Many in recent days have mentioned, as if it were a precedent, the action of President Roosevelt on the eve of World War II in appointing two Republicans, Stimson and Knox, to be the civilian heads of the armed services. It was a wise and fruitful move, a guarantee to the country that the coming war would not be exploited for partisan New Deal politics.

But it is useful to recall that before Stimson accepted the enormous responsibility, he laid down conditions which he believed would give him the necessary power to meet the responsibility. He stipulated that he would become the Secretary of War only if he had the unconditional right to appoint his own subordinates. To this Roosevelt agreed, and Stimson appointed a brilliant group of Republicans whom he knew and trusted. They included Robert Patterson, John J. McCloy, Robert Lovett and Harvey Bundy.

The moral of this example is that Stimson, who understood politics and government, knew that if he was to work successfully with the Roosevelt administration, he must secure his own power within the department he was involved to head. He knew better than to indulge in the pretense that just because he was a prominent Republican, he could, naked and unarmed, do what was supposed to result from the appointment of a Republican by a Democratic President.

Stevenson's Position

In his statement on Tuesday, Mr. Stevenson said that "in view of the gravity of our situation in the world, I have both the desire and the duty to assist our government, regardless of partisanship or personal convenience." There is no doubt about it. The situation is grave and it is everyone's duty to assist the government. The only question is how each person can best assist it, and particularly if he is Adlai Stevenson.

We shall mislead ourselves, I believe, if we suppose that our situation is like that in wartime when in order to have unity in action it is necessary to forego debate and dissent. The real issues in our present situation do not turn primarily on the capabilities or the intentions of the Russians to wage war. They turn upon our own capacity and willingness to make the efforts to meet the challenge of Soviet competition. This involves a truly agonizing reappraisal of our policies and of our attitudes at home and abroad.

Opposition's Function

In such a reappraisal the loyal opposition has a great function to perform. It is not to do the work of the administration. It cannot do it. It is not to be the salesman and the lobbyist of the official line. It is to analyze fairly, generously, but firmly, the official policies and actions and to offer alternatives and so that there can be choices and an enlightened debate.

For the underlying fact of the situation today is that nobody in authority or in opposition now has a clear and systematic view of all the things that need to be done. We shall have to hammer out such views on the anvil of debate.

Says Monessen Should Plan For a College

To the Editor:

In the Daily Independent on Nov. 13, long range plans for the growth and improvement of the City of Monessen were revealed. However, one important facet of community living has been overlooked.

Our mode of living has changed considerably in the past decade and will continue to change at a rapid pace. In this scientific age, the youth of Monessen must be inspired to greater heights in education than ever before. The community has a responsibility towards its youth and should place within the reach of every qualified and interested student a college for advanced education.

The need for advanced learning cannot be over-emphasized or ignored. The crowded and highly expensive institutions today are discouraging to many young people seeking higher education.

The possibility that the City of Monessen can support an institution of higher education should be studied by the civic, political, industrial, and labor leaders of our community.

Election Didn't Settle Issue of Campaign

By HARRY R. PORE Jr.

Elections do not always settle the issues which are raised in the political campaigns which precede them.

At first thought this may seem to be a paradox. Why vote if we are not making conclusive decisions?

But students of history and politics have long understood that democracy is, among other things, a learning process. It has often happened that an idea which is unpopular today becomes standard doctrine tomorrow.

It was that way with Woodrow Wilson's concept of a world order based on justice under international law. The country was not ready for this idea when Wilson was expounding it. The Senate refused to permit the United States to join the League of Nations, and when Wilson took the issue to the people he was defeated and died a broken man.

But today most people acknowledge that Wilson was fundamentally right. And the grandson of the man who led the opposition to Wilson in the Senate is the chief American delegate to the United Nations and a most effective advocate of the Wilsonian concept.

Issue in County Election

What I am getting around to saying is that in our recent preelection campaign in Westmoreland County an issue was raised — a very fundamental one, in my opinion. And I doubt if the outcome of the election represents a conclusive and final decision by the people. At least I hope it does not.

This issue is the participation of judges in partisan politics. Except when they themselves are candidates, judges are not supposed to make political speeches or endorsements, contribute to campaign funds or otherwise engage in politics.

The reason for this is obvious. The judge who is also a party politician is not likely to be as free as he should be to render independent decisions based solely on the law. He is bound to have obligations and commitments and alliances which can color his judgment.

Yet for some years nearly all of the judges of Westmoreland County have consistently violated this ethical principle. There can be no argument about this — the record is clear.

The issue was raised during the recent campaign by the Republican candidates for judge. They charged the present judges with unethical partisan activity and then promised that, if elected, they would adhere strictly to the accepted ethics.

Issue Ignored

The Democratic candidates, two of whom were already judges, ignored this issue. They refused to discuss it in debate or otherwise, simply pretending that it did not exist. They did not even bother to deny the charges of partisan activity. And they won.

Therefore, some people, including the successful candidates, may conclude that the people decided it is alright for judges to play around in politics, that the people actually want political judges and should have them.

But I say that here is another case in which a mere counting of noses on election day did not finally decide an issue. Indeed, I feel we dare not allow the matter to rest at this unsatisfactory point.

Those who agree that judges ought to stay out of politics have an obligation not to drop the issue. They ought to persist until the courts of Westmoreland County are ethical courts presided over by ethical judges.

A particular obligation rests, I think, on the Westmoreland County Bar Association and the Pennsylvania Bar Association. For the principle involved here is a principle of the legal profession, to which all judges belong and whose ethics they are obliged to respect. And it would seem to me to be a duty of the profession, both to itself and to the public, to do a better job than has been done in Westmoreland County to protect and defend its ethical standards.

Lawyers Acquiesce

The trouble has been, I gather, that too many lawyers in Westmoreland County have been willing either to accept in silence or to acquiesce for business reasons in practices which they know are wrong. Too few have been willing to take the risk of offending judges who are leaders of a powerful political machine.

I do not know whether the County Bar Association will be able to muster the courage to do what its members surely know ought to be done. But I do know that the election did not properly dispose of this issue. We cannot admit that the last word on the participation of judges in partisan politics in Westmoreland County has been spoken.

The Lighter Side—

'Unipressers' Recall 50 Years of the 'UP'

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP)—In this 50th anniversary year of the United Press, thousands of present and former "Unipressers" — toilers glamorous and grubby in the round-the-clock business of gleaning and winnowing the news of the world under the logotype "U.P." — have been reminiscing about the life a newsman leads.

The term Unipresser grew out of the cable address of the organization: Unipress. Anyone who is employed by the U.P. automatically becomes a Unipresser. And yet, the feeling persists among its newsmen and its far-flung alumni corps that the word Unipresser connotes experience "under fire" in the sometimes frantic race to catch up with the news and master it.

Experience Varied

The experience can come in puzzling through a complicated court decision or scientific paper. It can come in the tedium of vote counting, in rounding up for publication all sides of a labor dispute, in just sitting and watching a jury which has reached a verdict file slowly and gravely into the box.

It can come in the tinkling of a telephone bell in the middle of the night.

Take this instance, quoted from Joe Alex Morris' new book about the U.P.'s first 50 years, "Deadline Every Minute." Harold Guard the press association's bureau manager in Singapore, was snoozing peacefully one morning — the last peaceful sleep he was going to have for many months: It was the morning of Dec. 8, 1941.

Japanese Attack

About 4:30 o'clock that morning the telephone rang.

Guard: Hello.

Voice: This is Arshad, the office boy, sir.

Guard: What's wrong?

Arshad (in tears): The beautiful teleprinter is broken, sir.

Guard: What broke it?

Arshad: It fell from the table.

Guard: Why?

Arshad: Because the bomb came, sir.

Guard: What bomb? Where did it come from?

Arshad: From the Japanese airplane, sir. The Japanese are bombing Singapore, sir.

The air-raid alarm sounded while Guard was pulling on his clothes. If he had not been a Unipresser before, he certainly would have become a good and true one during those moments of hauling on his pants and shirt.

ON THE BALL

By CLAIR BROWN

Manzini Loses First 'Half-game'

"I've lost football games before but I've never lost a half-game before and I hope I don't have to make a decision like the one made at the North Union game Thursday night," said Bap Manzini, Bellmar High grid coach, in commenting on the calling of the Hurricane-Ram game just before half-time due to torrential rains. and not resuming play . . . "Undoubtedly some fans will say we should have finished the game but if they could have seen how cold and how drenched the players of both teams were in the dressing rooms at half-time and seen the condition of that field plus the light failure they'd have done the same thing." . . . Manzini went on to explain that the "kids come first" and had the game continued "and any of the players had possibly contracted pneumonia, then who'd have taken the blame? . . . It was a tough decision for a victory would have meant a winning season for the 'Canes, had they come back and copped the decision.

Robert Kopko, former Greyhound gridder, turned in another fine performance for Elon College in a 34-7 win over Newberry College of South Carolina the other night, recovering a fumble which led to a touchdown . . . Bellmar's new band director is officially Edmund Rizzuto, who has been filling in for the late Ernie Dolfi since his death last month . . . Rizzuto was named to the post at a board meeting this week . . . Joseph Petaccia, who taught at Monessen the past two years, will head the vocal music instruction at Bellmar . . . Former Pitt cage great Charley Hyatt has been named to the Helms Amateur Basketball Hall of Fame . . . Those selected are from hoopsters who competed in industrial league throughout the country.

Playoff Dates Set for A, AA

Saturday, Nov. 30 is the date set by the WPIAL football Committee for the Class AA championship game at the committee's meeting in Pittsburgh earlier this week . . . The Class A finalists have been identified as Braddock and Glassport who will battle at McKeesport the night of Nov. 22 (Next Friday) for the championship . . . No decision was reached on the Class B playoff due to a wide-open battle there . . . Centerville is the district team in the running there . . . Coach Pete Daley and his assistant John Wolosky deserve a lot of credit for taking a squad of only about 25 players with only Leon Pagac back from last season and molding a contender again despite the loss of the fabulous Red Worrell.

* * *

John Meegan, the fullback who quit Indiana University earlier this week, is not a former Uniontown gridder as the wire release had it but a former Dunbar standout . . . He played against Bellmar a couple of years back . . . By the way, he is thinking seriously of enrolling at West Virginia Universary for the second semester . . . One of baseball's greatest players may attend the Big Five Conference banquet on Dec. 11 to supplement the program which will be headed by Notre Dame's Terry Brennan . . . Ticket orders for the fete are flooding this department giving indications of another sell-out affair . . . Valley sportswriters and coaches will meet week after next to select the conference All-Stars for 1957.

Brownies Dislike Turkey Day Tilt

Brownsville High Faculty Manager of Athletics Leonard Gobielewski has informed us that contrary to reports in a Uniontown newspaper Brownsville definitely wants to play the postponed Monessen game but not on Thanksgiving Day . . . Says Leonard, "We will play on any of four alternate dates suggested to Monessen authorities as the situation now stands but would rather not play on Thanksgiving" . . . Local school official gave the Brownies Wednesday, November 27 as an alternate date . . . If the many postponed games in the area aren't squared away soon we know of several balding cage mentors who are going to be regular "cue-balls" after a few more hair-tearing sessions.

Coaches Often Can't Avoid High Scoring

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Fearless Fraley's facts and figures:

Coach Dave Nelson of Delaware, whose football team blasted Temple, 71-7, last week, says it's downright embarrassing to flog a rival in that manner but sometimes you just can't do anything about it.

"We let the clock run straight through in the last quarter and used every man on the squad," he explained. "But every time we ran, we scored, and every time they threw, we scored. It was just one of those things."

It was sort of like the time one of Clark Shaughnessy's teams was leading a rival 82-0.

"For goodness sakes," Clark told his boys, "the next time you get the ball, kick it."

So the opposition fumbled on its 10 yard line and Clark's team kicked — a field goal which made it 85-0.

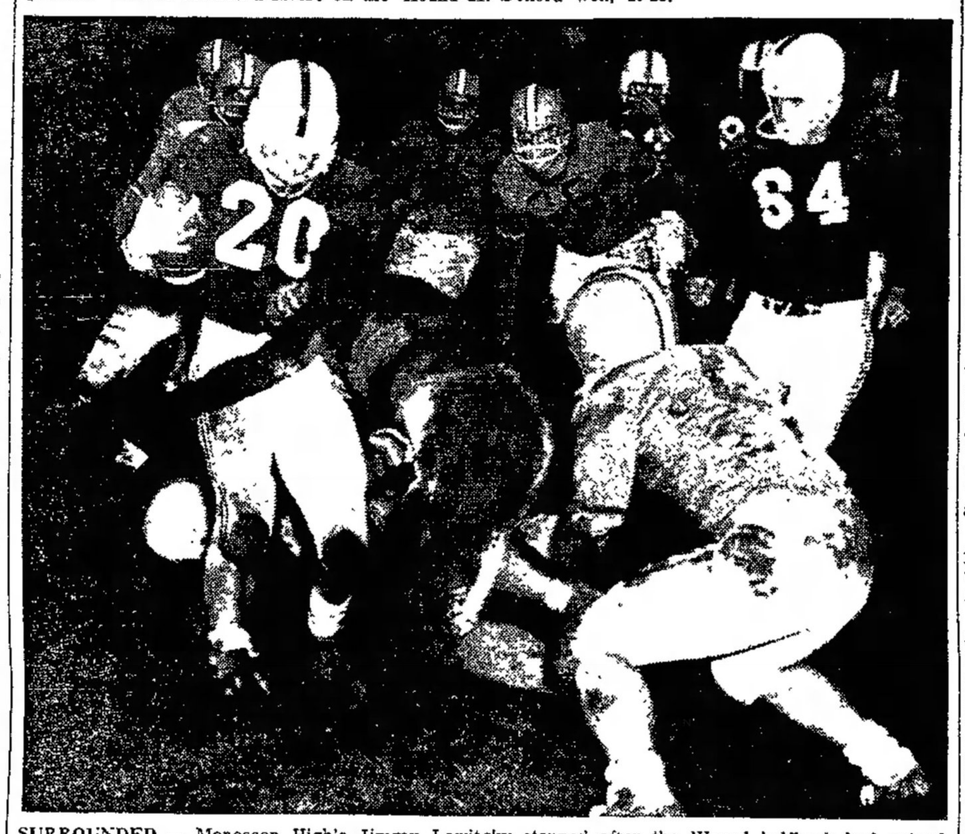
Bill Skowron and Johnny Kucks of the New York Yankees and Danny O'Connell of the Giants will bowl a match at Paramus, N.J., Sunday night against former boxing champions Jimmy Braddock, Mickey Walker and Gus Lesnevich. None other than Harry Balogh, the loquacious ring announcer, will introduce them. . .and, to quote him, "may the better combatants emerge victorious."

What do you mean, the weaker sex? Tom Staiger of Greenwood, Del., has a fast car which competes in NASCAR races along the Atlantic Coast. The mechanic is his wife, Irene, who does all the mechanical work including putting in new rings and pistons, replacing gaskets, repairing the fuel pump and whatever else you do to wheezing stock cars. Stands to reason they consider 13 their lucky number.

George M. Trautman, president of the minor league, has issued a new manual for umpires which calls a spade exactly.

"You know when you walk on the field that your fellow umpires are your only friends," Trautman asserts.

DONORA DANDY — Angie Dabiero, Donora's star halfback, hauls in 41-yard pass from Quarterback Davey Russell to set up second Dragon touchdown last night with Monessen's Dan Barton in pursuit. Barton downed Dabiero on the 'Hound 21. Donora won, 19-13.



SURROUNDED — Monessen High's Jimmy Lewitsky stopped after the 'Hound halfback had gained seven yards on a second quarter end sweep against Donora in the 19-13 loss for the locals last night. Making the tackle is the Dragons' fullback, Tom Urbanik. Other players identified are Donora's Angie Dabiero, foreground, Larry Staffen (36), Co-Captain Wally Fronzaglia (9) and Greyhound gridders Lou Gigliotti (64) and Ed Allen (75).

Monessen Dominates Game But Loses to Donora Dragons, 19-13

Locals 'Blow' Chance to Tie or Win With Last Quarter Fumble on DHS 5

Monessen High School's footballers won everything but the ball game, and that was the purpose of the visit to Donora last night, where the locals dropped a 19-13 decision to the Dragons before about 2,500 fans.

The Greyhounds ground out 260 yards to just 139 for the Dragon ball-carriers, in chalking up 14 first downs to eight and, except for the passing department completely dominated the game.

Only final scores are marked in record books so the game will be recorded as a defeat for the 'Hounds despite the superiority shown throughout the game.

Angelo Dabiero, Donora's brilliant halfback, tallied all three of the Dragon scores in leading his mates back from a 6-0 first quarter deficit.

Locals Score First

Monessen tallied the second time it handled the ball as a fumble halted a 'Hound drive on the Donora six on the first series of downs for the Niccolaimen, a blocked kick by Bob Pauling giving the ball back to the locals on the Donora 5.

Two plays later Carl Rattay, Monessen fullback, crashed over for the touchdown. Dan Barton's extra-point attempt was blocked.

Late in the first quarter, after Dabiero had chalked up a first down to the Monessen 42, quarterback Davey Russell of Donora found Dabiero with a pass good for 37 yards to the Monessen 20.

The 'Hounds held for three downs but on the final shot of the series Russell found Dabiero (and three other Dragons) over the goal line with a scoring toss and Russell booted the extra point, which the officials ruled just "skimmed" over the crossbar and a 7-6 half-time lead.

Monessen started to move again just before the half but a pass interception by Russell on the Donora 20 stopped the drive.

Early in the third quarter Donora's only sustained drive of the game led to another Donora score, a 41-yard pass from Russell to Dabiero again setting the stage, Dabiero finally circling end for the score from the eight yard line after another Russell pass, this time to end Big Alcott putting the ball close to touchdownland. Russell's extra point attempt was blocked for the 13-6 count.

The third Dragon score went into the books a few mements later when after a Monessen punt, Dabiero ran for 19 yards, then 11 and after an incomplete pass, took a pitch out from Russell and raced 30 yards around his own right end for another score. An attempted run for the extra point failed.

This third score seemed to fire the Greyhounds.

'Hounds Fired Up

Barton took the ball 32 yards on the first play after the kickoff and Barton and Rattay ate up 20 more yards to put the ball on the Donora 17 from where Carl Rattay on one of the most brilliant power runs imaginable went over right tackle, carrying part of the Dragon team with him into the end-zone, diving across for the TD. Barton ran end for the extra point and the 19-13 count.

Following the ensuing kickoff the locals let their "big chance" literally slip through their fingers as a short kickoff return put the ball at the Donora 18 where fullback Tom Urbanick fumbled and Joe Karbowsky recovered for Monessen.

In three plays the locals drove to the Donora 5 but repaid the Dragon favor by fumbling back with guard Neill Clark pouncing on the ball. That ended it for the 'Hounds except for a final desperation drive following a blocked punt, a Barton to O'Toole pass ending up in the 'Hound ends' arms but ruled a "first-bounce" catch and no good.

A short while later with Donora in possession of the ball running out the clock, it was all over.

Next start for Monessen is against Hempfield here next Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Timmy Lee, Payne's end mate, and sophomore halfbacks Bobby Daugherty and Paul Strelick also contributed TDs, all from up close to cap drives.

Uhlman Blanked

Ron Cosner, sidelined regular CHS quarterback, booted four extra points for the winners but ironically, Joe Uhlman, who had been the conference's leading scorer prior to last night's game, did not tally.

Redstone was saved from a "skunking" when Halfback Jack Marburry went over in the final quarter, the only period in which Charleroi failed to hit paydirt.

Coach Rab Currie's Cougars end their season with Brownsville next week in a postponed tilt and if they top the Brownies will repeat as Big Five champs. A loss would tie them with Donora.

Charleroi	6	21	13	0	—40
Redstone	0	0	0	7	— 7

Touchdowns: Reeves 2, Daugherty, Lee, Payne, Strelick, Jack Murphy.

Extra points: Cosner 4, L. DeSimone.

Army Passing Buck on Bowl Game Status

NEW YORK (UP) — The "Old Army Game" apparently has passed the buck of Army's New Year's Day bowl status to the White House.

The "game" started on the plains above the Hudson Thursday when Lt. Gen. Gar Davison, academy superintendent, called attention to a nine-year old no-bowl policy. Gen. Davison observed, however, that this policy could be changed by the Pentagon.

This statement whisked the buck into the corridors of the Pentagon in Washington, D.C., where an "Army spokesman" fielded it neatly and sent it on its way to still higher authority.

"I can see no reason and no set of circumstances under which the academy would be told to play in a bowl game," the spokesman said. "If such reasons should develop, however, the order could come from the Secretary of the Army, the Secretary of Defense or the White House."

In other words, Army will accept a bowl bid if President Eisenhower says it's okay. Academy officials know they won't get the okay without a victory over Navy on Nov. 30 but they'd like to pass along the official word to Cotton Bowl officials who'll be poised in Philadelphia Municipal Stadium, Nov. 30, to make a bee-line for the winner's dressing room.

Both Army and Navy have been mentioned as possible Cotton Bowl opponents for unbeaten and untied Texas A&M, which can nail down the Southwest Conference bid today. Navy whipped Mississippi, 21-0, in the Cotton Bowl on Jan. 1, 1955 and is known to be interested in journeying to another bowl.

Reds Sign Thurman

CINCINNATI (UP)— Bob Thurman, who hit 16 homers and batted .247 for the Cincinnati Redlegs last season, has been signed to a 1958 contract by General Manager Gabe Paul. Paul signed Thurman recently in Puerto Rico where the outfielder is playing winter ball.

Westinghouse Cops Fourth City Title in Row

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Westinghouse football machine carried its fourth consecutive City League championship today because not even a muddy South Athletic Field could stop its single-wingers from rolling over Fifth Avenue High before 8,000 fans last night, 39-13.

Sophomore fullback Bill McClellan led the Section I tillists by running for two touchdowns, passing for another and intercepting an Archer aerial to set up still another.

Halfback Howard Tibbs also scored twice for the Bulldogs while Ron Henderson and Albert Calloway each had one touchdown.

Both Fifth Avenue touchdowns came as the result of loose balls. Ted Woods swept his own right end from the two after Bill Dowdell had picked up a blocked punt only to trip near the goal line. Don Campbell grabbed a fumble and ran 62 yards for the Section II winners' other score.

Tech-Westminster Meet in 19th Encounter Today

By UNITED PRESS

Carnegie Tech and Westminster met at Forbes Field today for their 19th encounter in a top game involving Western Pennsylvania college teams.

In all-time series play, Tech has won 11, lost 6 and the teams have tied once. Last year, Westminster walloped the Tartans, 48-0.

A win by Tech would give it a tie with St. Vincent for championship of the so-called Western Pennsylvania Class B Conference. St. Vincent finished with a 3-0-0 record in conference competition.

Quarterback John Tucci and five other Tartan seniors played their final college football game as both teams finished their season schedule.

Other games today, all of them season final contests, included:

Bethany at John Carroll; Lycoming at Geneva; Hiram at Grove City; Indiana State Teachers and Clarion at a neutral field; Lock Haven and Mansfield at a neutral field; West Liberty at Slippery Rock; Thiel at Allegheny; Washington and Jefferson at Rochester, N.Y.; Central State at Waynesburg.

Juniata played at Albright today and will meet Ursinus next week end in its final game.

West Chester defeated California Teachers, 13-7, Friday night. Pitt was idle this week end.

Underdogs Pace Play in NBA

By UNITED PRESS

Underdogs had a good night in the National Basketball Association Friday night, giving the Philadelphia Warriors encouragement for their game tonight against the undefeated Boston Celtics at Boston, the first meeting of the season of these teams.

In Friday night's games, Cincinnati broke a four-game losing streak with a 101-99 conquest of the New York Knickerbockers; Minneapolis, with only one victory in eight previous games, rallied to beat the Detroit Pistons, 112-104, and the Syracuse Nationals defeated St. Louis, 91-86.

The Warriors are in second place in the Eastern Division with a 5-4 record compared to Boston's 10-0, and need a victory tonight to keep the division race from becoming a runaway.

In other games tonight, Detroit is at New York, with six former Knicks playing for the first time in New York as Pistons, and Syracuse is at St. Louis.

Browns, 49ers Must Overcome Jinxes To Retain Lead

By UNITED PRESS

The San Francisco Forty-Niners and Cleveland Browns must overcome a National Football League jinx as well as tough opponents Sunday to retain their one-game division leads.

Because of intensive scouting and various other mental and physical factors, NFL teams have a hard time whipping another opponent twice in the same campaign. San Francisco and Cleveland play road games against clubs they already have beaten this year.

San Francisco (5-2) is a four-point underdog against the Lions (4-3) at Detroit. The Lions, tied with the Baltimore Colts for second behind the Forty-Niners in the Western Division, dropped a 35-31 decision at San Francisco two weeks ago.

Cleveland (6-1) leads the New York Giants (5-2) in the Eastern race and is a 3½ point choice against the Redskins (2-5) at Washington.

New York is an 11-point favorite to whip the Philadelphia Eagles (2-5) at Yankee Stadium.

The Bears (3-4) are favored over the Colts by 6½ points at Chicago and the Los Angeles Rams (3-4) are favored over the Green Bay Packers (2-5) by 4½ at Milwaukee. The Pittsburgh Steelers (4-3) and Cardinals (2-5) are idle and will play at Chicago Dec. 22 after the other clubs end their regular seasons.

Bear Bryant Seen In As New Head Alabama Coach

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UP)—Texas A&M coach Paul (Bear) Bryant today apparently had the inside track on the University of Alabama football post, but neither he nor school officials will admit it.

The top-ranked Aggies were expected to remain undefeated after meeting Rice this afternoon. However, Alabama, with a 3-22-2 record during coach J. B. Whitworth's three year reign, was expected to suffer another defeat against Georgia Tech.

Whitworth has already been notified he will not be retained after his contract expires Dec. 1.

Bryant has kept up a steady flow of denials that he is even interested in returning to his alma mater, but he has family ties here. His wife is from Troy, Ala., and her step-father, M. C. Folmar, lives in Birmingham.

Sports writers and other "reliable sources" throughout the state have been mentioning Bryant more than other candidates such as Jim Tatum of North Carolina and former Alabama All-America Harry Gilmer, assistant coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers. Both had been mentioned earlier.

Seek Bowl Bid

CANYON, Tex. (UP)—West Texas State, one of several teams being considered for bids to the Sun and Tangerine Bowls, feels it can clinch a bid to one or the other today by beating Drake. West Texas State has a 7-2 record and Drake a 6-1 mark.

Sooners 18-Point Choice

By FRANK LITSKY

Oklahoma, trying to protect its winning streak, and Iowa, trying to keep its Big Ten championship, are favored today in the outstanding games of a showdown college football schedule.

Oklahoma, winner of 47 straight dating back to 1953, is an 18-point favorite over Notre Dame at Norman, Okla., in the nationally televised (NBC) game. Oklahoma already has clinched the Big Eight championship and the Orange Bowl berth that goes with it.

Conference rules prevent Iowa from returning to the Rose Bowl, where it won last New Year's Day. The Hawkeyes are a one-point choice over Ohio State at Columbus, Ohio, in a game which will decide the Big Ten champion and send Ohio State to the Rose Bowl if it wins.

Need Wins For Bowls

Ohio State, Oregon, Duke and Texas A&M all are in the same boat. Each needs only one victory in the next two games to clinch a major bowl berth.

If Ohio State loses, it still can go to Pasadena by beating Michigan next week. Oregon will be the other Rose Bowl team if it beats Southern California (Oregon favored by seven points) or Oregon State. Duke can earn the Orange Bowl berth opposite Oklahoma with a win over Clemson (Duke favored by seven) or North Carolina.

Texas A&M can become the host team in the Cotton Bowl by beating Rice (Aggies favored by seven points) or Texas. Texas A&M, Oklahoma and Auburn, ranked 1-2-3 in that order by the United Press Board of Coaches, are the only major teams still unbeaten and untied.

Auburn Barred

Since NCAA recruiting penalties bar Auburn from a bowl, Tennessee and Mississippi are the leading bowl candidates from the Southeastern Conference. Tennessee is a seven-point favorite in its game with Mississippi but each team should land in a post-season game — Cotton, Sugar or Gator.

Other favorites:

Intersectional — Army over Tulane. Boston College over Marquette.

East — Princeton over Yale. Dartmouth over Cornell, Pennsylvania over Columbia, Brown over Harvard, Penn State over Holy Cross, Syracuse over Colgate.

Pick Michigan State

Midwest — Michigan State over Minnesota. Michigan over Indiana. Wisconsin over Illinois, Purdue over Northwestern, Colorado over Nebraska, Missouri over Kansas State, Oklahoma State over Kansas, Tulsa over Cincinnati, Houston over Wichita.

South — Auburn over Georgia, Florida over Vanderbilt, Georgia Tech over Alabama, North Carolina State over Virginia Tech, Navy over George Washington, West Virginia over Wake Forest, Kentucky over Xavier (Ohio), Louisiana State - Mississippi State and Virginia - South Carolina are "even money."

Southwest — Texas Christian over Texas, Arkansas over Southern Methodist.

Far West — Oregon State over Stanford, California over Washington, Washington State over Idaho, UCLA over College of Pacific, Utah over Air Force Academy.

In Friday night action, Maryland's unpredictable Terrapins knocked Miami off the Gator Bowl's list with a 16-6 victory over the fumbling Hurricanes in the Orange Bowl.

Junior quarterback Bob Ruseyan of Washington, D.C., provided the spark for a scoring punch Maryland has lacked most of the season. His short passes over the line carried Maryland on a 73-yard scoring march in the first period and an unexpected two-foot lob to halfback Howie Dare produced the insurance touchdown in the third quarter.

Boxer Buried

NEW YORK (UP)— Jack Denning, old-time middleweight, was buried Friday at Calvary Cemetery, Queens. Denning, 70, died Tuesday of asthma. During his career, he fought such notables as Mike and Tom Gibbons, Billy Papke, Eddie McGoorty and Jack Dillon.

Smith Beats Rosini

MELBOURNE, Australia (UP)— Lightweight Charlie Smith of Sydney outpointed Franco Rosini of Italy Friday night in a 12-round bout. Smith weighed 137 to Rosini of Italy Friday night in a 12-round bout. Smith weighed 137 to Rosini's 137¾.

Rangers Recall Ralph

NEW YORK (UP)— The New York Rangers have called up 21-year old defenseman Ralph Keller from the Saskatoon-St. Paul Regals of the Western Hockey League. Keller will report to the Rangers for their Sunday night game with Montreal at New York.

State Meets Crusaders; Upset Seen Possible

WORCESTER, Mass. (UP) — Favored Penn State, pressing for its sixth season victory, met Holy Cross here today before 20,000 fans in a game replete with upset possibilities.

The Nittany Lions were faced with stopping Holy Cross's sharp aerial attack, led by quarterback Eddie Greene, and paralyzing the Crusader's equally powerful running offense.

Greene, going into the game, was leading the nation in total offense with 1,250 yards, and was the No. 8 passer with 64 completions in 126 attempts for 1,074 yards and 10 touchdowns.

Also injured Holy Cross halfback Ed Hayes was back in action. Hayes, injured in the first game against Virginia Military Institute, was rated the Crusaders' best offensive running back at the beginning of the season.

Another factor which made it tough for Penn State was the Crusader's improved defensive line.

On the positive side of the ledger, for the Nittany Lions, was State's fine pass offense with sophomore Richie Lucas and Al Jacks on the hurling end and end Les Walters catching.

Penn State has been concentrating all week on its pass defense in order to halt Greene and company.

DeSoto at Frank's Introduces 18 Models with 15 Major Changes

It's DeSoto time for the 1958 models at the DeSoto-Plymouth sales room of Frank's Service Garage, 122 East Donner avenue!

DeSoto introduces 18 new models, the largest number in its 29-year history, paced by 15 major styling and mechanical changes, and two completely new V-8 Turboflash engines.

The new models were on display by DeSoto dealers throughout the United States this Friday (November 1). They were designed "to begin where 1957 leaves off" as uncompromising styling and engineering leaders in their price groups, according to L. Irving Woolson, president, DeSoto Division, Chrysler Corporation.

A convertible model has been added to the Firesweep series, the lower priced prestige car introduced last year by DeSoto.

"Recording - breaking acceptance of the Firesweep last year has firmly established this third line in the DeSoto family," said Mr. Woolson. "It now takes its place, along with the Firedome and Fireflite, as a complete DeSoto series."

For the third year, DeSoto will also offer a convertible and a two-door hardtop Adventurer sports car, which will be available with fuel injection. Complete specifications of the Adventurer will be announced later.

Engineering news about DeSoto includes the new "Constant-Control power steering, Econo-Choke fuel system, Hi-Temp brake fluid, Sure-Grip differential, and the new V-8 line of Turboflash engines.

Torsion-Aire, the completely new suspension system introduced in 1957 as standard equipment on all lines, has been improved with the addition of new, longer outboarded rear springs with an additional half leaf for the rear axle which further reduces the rear end roll and prevents "acceleration squat."

In exterior and interior styling, DeSoto has refined its highly successful Flightsweep styling, giving it a new kind of individuality and distinction.

Outstanding new styling features include new grille-and-bumper designing, wrapover "Control - Tower" windshields standard on all convertibles and hardtops, dual head lamps, standard on all models; new color sweep treatment, wheel covers and rear bumper end guards. Interiors offer refreshingly new upholstery materials, an integral front seat construction and the improved placement of the rearview mirror on the instrument panel.

Exterior Styling

From the front, the Firedome and Fireflite series offer a striking new combination grille-and-bumper unit which in addition to enhancing the beauty of the car provides solid front end protection. The grille insert is expanded aluminum mesh, brightly anodized. The Firesweep has a distinctive flat hood and front fender "eyebrow" treatment.

From the side, the hallmark of the new DeSoto is the high, canted rear fender fins, designed with directional stability in mind. Dramatizing the tail fins in a new color sweep.

From the rear, the highly visible trademark of the DeSoto three-tiered taillights has been retained for the third year. The contemporary feeling of DeSoto's Flightsweep body styling is highlighted by the angular contrast with the "tumble-home" of the upper body structure.

Body Styles

With the addition of the Firesweep model, four different convertibles are available in the DeSoto lineup: Adventurer, Fireflite, Firedome and Firesweep. Four-door sedans are offered in each of the three series, as well as two and four-door Sportsman hardtops. The Firesweep is built on a 122-inch wheelbase and the other lines have a 126-inch wheelbase.

The Firesweep and Fireflite lines offer the two-seat Shopper and the three-seat nine-passenger Explorer station wagons. With seat folded flat into the floor they provide a full 95 cubic feet of cargo volume. Captive-air tires, pioneered in the industry by DeSoto, are standard equipment on all three-seat Explorer station wagons.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Elsie Forsberg, who died four years ago today, November 16, 1953.
We miss the many things
You did to make us glad.
Your cheery smile, your twinkling eyes,
And the unique way you had
To make us feel like smiling
When we are feeling low.
You transposed gloom to happiness
And kept us all aglow.
No, we cannot forget you,
The memories are dear
And we think of you
As being very near.
Sadly missed by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hughes and daughter; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Forsberg and children.

In loving memory of our dear brother and uncle, John Lutes, who died seven years ago tomorrow, November 17, 1950.
It's lonesome here without you,
And sad the weary way,
For life is not the same to us,
Since he was called away.
Gone from us that smiling face,
Those carefree happy ways,
The heart that won so many friends
In bygone happy days.
Sadly missed by sister, Rose and nephew, Bucky Lutes and Family.

In loving memory of our dear father, grandfather and uncle, Frank Damore, who died ten years ago today, November 16, 1947.
Today our hearts are heavy,
Our thoughts are all of thee.
Oh! How we miss you, father, dear,
No one but God can see.
Some say time heals an aching heart,
But, no, it isn't true.
For ten long years have passed dear father,
And our hearts still ache for you.
Sadly missed by children, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Laird, Mr. and Mrs. Nick DeRentis, Grandchildren, and Nephews and and Niece.

In loving memory of our dear husband, father and grandfather, Albert G. Deutsch, who died three years ago today, November 16, 1954
We live today with memories
Of days when you were here.
We miss you still and always will
Throughout each day and year.
At night when all is silent
And sleep forsakes our eyes
Our thoughts are in that lonely grave
Where our dear loved one lies.
Sadly missed by Wife, Son, Daughter-in-law and Grandchildren

Your Health—

The Pacifier Given Approval of Many Medical Authorities

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

The baby's pacifier is back. At least, it is now making a comeback.

Several years ago, I distinctly recall writing an article advising against use of a pacifier to keep little Junior quiet and content. That's the way the vast majority of doctors felt about it then.

A little more than a year ago, I wrote another column explaining that some doctors were changing their minds and were recommending use of pacifiers.

Now an article in one of the nation's leading health magazines, "Today's Health," which is published by the American Medical Association, says that many pediatricians and dentists, too, claim the pacifier is better than the baby's own thumb.

For one reason, it's supposed to be cleaner. According to Peter C. Goulding, an American Dental Association staff member, bacteriological studies have shown that pacifiers are actually more sanitary than thumbs.

Moreover, because of their soft texture, pacifiers are less likely than the thumb to force teeth out of position.

There's even a more important reason for permitting infants to use pacifiers. Goulding says kids apparently give up pacifiers earlier and with less trouble than they do thumbsucking. One study showed that 28 children spontaneously gave up the pacifier at an average age of 14 months.

How many three and four-year-olds do you know who still suck their thumbs? There are many.

Children have a basic sucking instinct. Since this apparently is one of the reasons for thumbsucking, the pacifier helps satisfy the need.

All in all, the pacifier now seems to be at least a partial answer to the age-old problem of how to prevent prolonged thumbsucking and the dental disfigurement it often causes.

In Hollywood—

Dorothy Malone Has To Fight Off Wolves

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Dorothy Malone, who makes a career of playing alcoholics and bad girls in movies, has the tinsel town wolf pack confused. Off - screen, the blonde beauty's life reads like a chapter from "The Bobbsy Twins."

The boys see Dorothy's picture, figure her for their kind of girl, and then run into a glacial reception that would cool the ardor of an Eskimo.

She's a bachelor girl who plans to stay that way for a while.

The Academy Award - winning actress doesn't like her "goody-goody" reputation, but she's stuck with it.

"I'm not a party girl." Dorothy admits. "I don't drink nor smoke, and I haven't made any romantic headlines. If I have a reputation for being a 'nice girl,' I guess I should consider it flattering."

The fact that she doesn't measure up to the usual glamor girl pattern of torrid love affairs and divorce court nip - ups seems to bother Dorothy a little.

"It's a funny kind of reputation to have," she said, figiting with her lunch in the Warner Brothers commissary. "The men I date know what kind of a girl I am before we go out.

"Playing Diana Barrymore is wonderful, but her life is so sad I feel terribly sorry for her

"I suppose my acting knocks the Stanislavsky method for a loop," she laughed. "That's when an actress lives the role for a few months before playing it.

"I'd really wreck my reputation and my life trying to keep up to imagine how these women behave and play it by ear."

Film Casting Can Be Very Difficult Job

By ANTHONY MANN

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—I'm currently in the brickbat business. Risking injury by being belted by same, that is.

Usually my major preoccupation is directing motion pictures. That's how I got into the present position, by filming a novel called "God's Little Acre."

Now this is no brand new, hot off the Press book. Erskine Caldwell wrote it twenty-five years ago. But the heat generated then doesn't show signs of cooling yet.

Classic is a very large word, and the prime test is the continued popularity of a book. In a quarter century, sales of more than 8,000,000 copies of "God's Little Acre" in 14 languages have been recorded.

Readers Are Critics

What's that got to do with making a movie?

Well, assume that the 8,000,000 recorded purchasers of "God's Little Acre" read the book. Perhaps half of them had friends of book-borrowing intimacy. And they read the book.

That makes 12,000,000 armchair critics.

If you do their story damage, you can count on hearing from some of them. Maybe a million or two.

And so I approached the casting of "God's Little Acre."

First of all, I was completely aware of the impossibility of ever finding the appropriate actor for the leading role of Ty Ty Walden, the colorful old Georgia dreamer. My job is matching actors to parts, but this time it had to be done for me—not once but twice.

Robert Ryan Chosen

Robert Ryan came to me and asked for the role. Bob is clean-cut, very talented and at least ten years younger than shaggy Ty Ty should be. I told him not to call me, I'd be in touch. But before I had a chance not to keep my promise, Caldwell sent a suggestion for Ty Ty: Robert Ryan. With makeup we made up the superficial difference.

Our "Darling Jill," blonde Fay Spain, was discovered in television. "Griselda" turned up on Broadway in the musical hit, "Li'l Abner"—namely red-headed Tina Louise. Both are, as we say, new to the screen.

And that's it. The motion picture version of "God's Little Acre" will be shown by United Artists next year, on the silver anniversary of the book.

Bring on the brickbats!

Swimming Classes For Handicapped

Swimming classes for the physically handicapped will begin at the YMCA in Greensburg next Tuesday.

These classes will be open to all age groups and will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. each Tuesday.

Any physically handicapped person who might be interested in joining these classes may secure information from the Westmoreland County Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Greensburg 6313, the Polio Foundation, Greensburg 6370, or by contacting Robert Williams at the YMCA.

People Don't Change

CHICAGO (UP) — Times have changed, or have they, a Chicago couple thought as they thumbed through a 157-year-old newspaper they found in their new apartment.

A merchant had advertised as follows:

"I with my brethren mean to live,

"But as for credit shall not give."

How to Stretch Use Of Air-Conditioner To Cool Entire House

Owners of small houses who have a ¾-ton or one-ton room air conditioner can "stretch" its capacity to comfortably cool the entire house.

This will work in a house of about 1,000 square feet, engineers say, if the house has:

1. Thick insulation. By reducing the amount of heat entering a house, thick insulation automatically cuts down on the size of cooling equipment.

2. A simple air circulating system. To cool an entire house with a window unit, the cool air in the room where the unit is installed must be circulated to other rooms. This can be done inexpensively with a wall grille or two, an ordinary kitchen exhaust fan, and possibly another small wall fan.

The house illustrated contains about 980 square feet of floor space, a basement, and a ventilated attic. A one-ton air conditioning unit is installed in a window of the master bedroom. The house is located in Kansas City, near the geographic center of the U.S.

Cooling Load Cut

Without insulation, three tons of air conditioning would be needed to cool the house. With the walls filled with mineral wool and with a six-inch thickness of this same type of insulation in the ceiling, the cooling load would be reduced to 14,000 "British thermal units," the standard measurement of heat. A one-ton air conditioner can remove 12,000 units per hour, close enough to 14,000 BTu's to maintain a comfortable temperature of 83 degrees in the house on days when the mercury hovers around 100.

The air circulation system shown in the drawing consists first of a simple louvered vent installed in the wall between the master bedroom and the children's room. This lets cool air flow from one room to another.

A small fan is installed in the wall between the guest room and the living room. This draws cool air through the master bedroom doorway into the guest room and distributes it into the living room.

A standard kitchen exhaust fan is installed in the kitchen wall at the end of the house farthest from the air conditioner. This fan pulls cool air from the living room into the kitchen dining area and at the same time exhausts excessive moisture and stale air.

Using a room air conditioner in this fashion is not intended to give perfect air conditioning. Rather, it is designed to deliver enough cooling to provide practical summer comfort at a low cost.

Have Fun In Fixing Up Home

One reason why so many home owners are avid "improvers" is that they enjoy the relaxation of fix-up projects and their recreation increases the value of the property. They're not only getting low-cost fun, but it's paying them in satisfaction and greater worth of their equity.

With the approach of the "indoors" season, the saw-and-hammer wielders are perusing the premises for promising projects. Here are some suggestions for their creative talents. To help them, free plans are available. All include the use of Masonite hardboards, the versatile panels which can be used for everything from walls to built-ins.

For Dad and Mom, Too

A "His and Hers" workshop is a worthwhile project—one section for Dad and the other for Mom to pursue her hobbies. Its number is AE-322, Home Service Bureau, Suite 2037, 111 W. Washington St., Chicago 2, Ill. Send a postal.

For the beginner home craftsman is a low-cost workbench and toolrack plan which can be assembled in an evening. The toolrack is "Peg-Board." Ask for Plan No. AE-312.

If an electric train needs a "home," make a model train table topped with "Peg-Board" panels to simplify the wiring. AE-328.

For the hunter, the Sportsrobe (AE-280) provides a fine cache for his togs, guns and other outdoor equipment. The winter fisherman will want to look over AE-299, which details the construction of a portable, knockdown ice fishing shelter.

Idea for Youth Room

Many families will be interested in a youth room with a divider desk, shelf-radiator enclosure, and closets with sliding doors. AE-265.

Need a corner table with a storage unit? This is ideal in a room with two beds. Request plan No. AP-8.

If the garage needs pre-winter facilities for screens and cabinets, consult plan AE-274. Included are details for making a storage platform, cabinets and drop-down worktable.

A project for enclosing stationary tubs and heater in a laundry room is shown in AE-281.

Ocarina is an Italian word meaning "little goose," from the instrument's resemblance to a goose.

Home Fixing Can Now Be Financed Easily

Home modernization now can be financed a number of ways without straining family budgets.

Banks, lending institutions, and even the Federal Government offer loans with liberal terms to homeowners trying to increase the value and comfort of their homes. An example of improvements which qualify for loans is the addition of extra baths and powder rooms. Another is the remodeling of an old bathroom, reports the Plumbing Fixture Manufacturers Association.

Here are the types of loans available for home modernization:

Open-end mortgage. An open-end mortgage simply means a homeowner can borrow on his present mortgage. The new loan can be repaid by raising the present monthly mortgage rates, or by keeping monthly payments the same and extending repayment period of the mortgage contract. In either case, the interest rate of the additional loan stays the same as in the original mortgage.

Second mortgage. Many mortgage holders grant home improvement loans to borrowers with good credit. These are called second mortgages and the house is used as security. They generally carry lower interest rates than non-mortgage plans.

Conventional Property Improvement loan. Some agencies will lend up to $2,500 for modernization. Here the borrower must repay the money within three years.

Title I Home Improvement loan. The Federal Housing Administration insures low-interest home improvement loans from qualified lending agencies. For a one-family house the loan insurance limit is $3,500. Repayment periods range up to five years on amounts of $600 or more.

Veterans Administration-insured loan. Veterans may set aside part of their "GI" mortgage guarantee for home improvements. The VA will insure 60 per cent of a loan from private banking institutions up to a maximum of $7,500. The interest rates are 4½ per cent and repayment time limit is 30 years.

Direct Veterans Administration Loan. The VA offers direct home improvement loans in roughly 2,500 counties where other adequate financial help is hard to obtain. Such loans usually have low interest rates.

Own Plan loan. Many banking institutions have their own special plans for home improvement loans. These generally provide liberal credit terms.

Personal loan. Such loans usually have short repayment periods and higher interest rates. However, they may be obtained easily for amounts up to $2,500.

Installment contract. Many dealers offer credit and installment plans. For example, a glamorous, up-to-date third bathroom could be installed in a home for a little money down and easy monthly payments.

Reasons for Modern Baths Are Many, Varied

"We just couldn't put up with our old bathroom any longer after we had taken a trip to Florida and seen the nice, modern bathrooms they have in the newest motels."

This comment by a middle-aged couple following the modernization of their bathroom is cited by the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau as an interesting example of basic reasons for this important home improvement.

Sometimes modernization of the bathroom is motivated by the desire to have new fixtures that will be easier to keep clean, sometimes by the knowledge that children are embarrassed when their friends see the old fixtures in their bathroom, and sometimes by the desire to increase the resale value of the house.

Usually, however, the Bureau says the dominant motive is the desire to enjoy the convenience and beauty of modern, attractively-styled, and colorful plumbing fixtures.

Modernizing the bathroom is no longer the chore it used to be. With many plumbing contractors offering a one-step modernization service, it is not necessary for the homeowner to deal separately with various craftsmen.
